STATEMENT FOR SELF-CERTIFIED ACCREDITED INVESTOR

I declare that I am an accredited investor in the country where I reside.
I understand that this means:

- (a) I can receive financial promotions that financial regulators may not have approved.
- (b) by signing this statement, I may lose significant rights
- (c) I am fully aware that I can lose all the money invested in any project
- (d) I can evaluate all the risks in investments

The regulations for accredited investors can vary from jurisdiction to jurisdiction and are often defined by the local market regulator or competent authority.
There is no formal agency or a process to secure the coveted status of an accredited investor. No registration, form-filling, or application is required, and no certificate is issued by any agency stating that one is now an accredited investor for this year.

Therefore, I decided to use this auto certification to declare myself an Accredited Investor.
I am aware of the requirements, if any, asked by my country in terms of
Minimum salary
Total savings without considering the house where you live
If you made more than one investment in an unlisted company in the two years before today
Etc etc

I am aware that it is open to me to seek advice from someone who specializes in investment advising.
